Product overview

The Pendaglio Ufficiali Esercito Guardia di Finanza is a formal officer's braid designed for commissioned officers of the Italian Esercito and Guardia di Finanza. It is intended as a wearable uniform accessory for dress duty, parades and official occasions.

Definition: A pendaglio is an ornamental uniform cord or braid that attaches to a belt or the inside ring of an overcoat. Made with handcrafted details and metal components, this piece suits military, police and duty wear, and is also of interest to tactical and military surplus collectors.

Main features

Detailed construction and quality materials define this pendaglio; key visual and functional elements are listed below.

- Materials: Golden metal tape with a 1 mm central azure thread and 1 mm black edges for a refined, two-tone finish.
- Length: Approximately 140 cm, finished to a pointed tip on both ends for a neat appearance.
- Sliding loop and buckle: A sliding passante made from the same tape with a double gold buckle formed by two welded oval rings.
- Swivel carabiner: 40 mm gold-colored swivel moschettone mounted on a link to allow smooth movement of the tape.
- Golden chain: Five trapezoidal, decreasing links with round-wire links joined by tube joints, plus a fixed-blade moschettone and a flat hook on the final link for secure anchoring.
- Versatile wear: Can be attached to a trousers' belt or to an internal coat ring for secure, unobtrusive placement.

How to use / When it's useful

Quick answer: Attach the pendaglio to your belt or to a ring sewn inside a coat and let the braid fall neatly at the side for dress duty or formal inspections. Ensure the carabiner and hook are properly fastened before wearing.

In most cases, this pendaglio is used for ceremonial, parade or formal duty settings where a polished uniform appearance is required. It is not intended for heavy field or tactical load-bearing use, but it complements military surplus uniforms and police/duty dress.

Care and notes

Simple maintenance preserves finish and function; follow these practical guidelines.

- Keep dry and avoid prolonged exposure to moisture to protect metal components.
- Wipe metal parts with a soft cloth; avoid abrasive cleaners that could damage plating.
- Check the moschettone and hooks regularly to ensure secure attachment before each use.
- Handle gently—this is a dress accessory, not a load-bearing tactical item.
- Limited availability: stock may run low due to demand and handcrafted production.

FAQ

Q: What materials are used in the pendaglio?

A: The pendaglio uses a golden metal tape with a 1 mm azure central thread and 1 mm black edges, plus gold-colored metal chain links and hooks.

Q: How long is the pendaglio?

A: The overall length of the braid is approximately 140 cm, with pointed ends for a neat finish.

Q: How do I attach the pendaglio to my uniform?

A: Attach the carabiner or flat hook to a belt loop or the internal coat ring; the sliding passante and swivel carabiner allow smooth adjustment for correct positioning.

Q: What are the distinctive details to look for?

A: Look for the double oval gold buckle, the 40 mm swivel moschettone, and the chain made of five trapezoidal links joined by tube joints—these are the main decorative and functional features.

Q: Is the pendaglio suitable for field or tactical use?

A: No. This is a dress uniform accessory intended for ceremonial and duty wear, not for heavy field or tactical load-bearing tasks.

Q: Is the pendaglio available in large quantities?

A: Availability is limited; production and demand can restrict stock. Order promptly if you require a piece for a specific event.

Tip: Choose the correct variant or fit for your uniform and inspect attachment points before use. Also consider browsing related uniform and duty accessories to complete a coordinated appearance.
