Product overview

Gold-finish metal pocket buttons designed for Aeronautica (Air Force) ordinary uniforms, suited to military personnel, collectors and enthusiasts who want a neat, official look. These buttons feature a raised spread-eagle motif and are made from brass with a gold finish.

Definition: a 12 mm brass pocket button with a gold finish and an embossed eagle, intended as a decorative and functional detail for uniforms and civilian garments.

Main features

Durable, easy to fit and suitable for both uniform use and civilian clothing for a refined, duty-style appearance.

- Material: brass with a gold finish for corrosion resistance and long life.
- Size: 12 mm diameter, compact for pocket placement.
- Design: raised eagle motif conveying authority and military style.
- Easy application: fits quickly with no specialised tools required.
- Versatile use: works on jackets, shirts and coats as well as uniforms.

How to use / When it’s useful

These pocket buttons attach simply to the uniform pocket, requiring only a few quick steps to secure them. They are commonly used for dress uniforms, ceremonial wear, and to add a military-inspired detail to civilian clothing.

Quick answer: they are easy to apply by hand and do not need specialised sewing tools. In most cases, the 12 mm size fits standard uniform pockets without looking oversized or out of place.

Care and notes

Basic care keeps the gold finish looking good and preserves the brass base over time.

- Wipe with a soft, dry cloth after use to remove oils and moisture.
- Avoid prolonged exposure to harsh chemicals or saltwater to protect the finish.
- Store in a dry place to limit tarnish and wear.
- Limited availability: stock can be constrained due to demand from service members and collectors.
