Product overview

The Soggolo Maresciallo Prima Classe Aeronautica Militare is a rank shoulder strap produced for serving members of the Aeronautica Militare and for licensed collectors. It is intended for use on service dress to display the rank of Maresciallo Prima Classe.

Definition: a soggolo is a shoulder strap (rank insignia) worn on Italian military uniforms to indicate rank and unit affiliation.

Main features

This soggolo combines traditional styling with durable materials suited for duty and ceremonial use; it is relevant for tactical, military surplus, and uniform supply needs.

- Material: gold ribbon mounted on black salpa for durability.
- Central stripe: 5 mm blue central stripe for clear identification.
- Size: length 32 cm, height 15 mm.
- Rank stripes (galloncini): light-blue striped, black-edged galloncini with three rails per side, positioned at temple level.
- Intended users: reserved to Aeronautica Militare personnel; collectors with appropriate licence may purchase (see purchase conditions).

How to use / When it’s useful

Use the soggolo as part of the uniform on the service dress where rank straps are required; it is suitable for daily duty, formal uniforms, and uniform collectors documenting authentic items. Quick answer: wear it on the shoulder at temple level as shown in service regulations.

In most cases, the soggolo is supplied ready to attach according to standard uniform fittings; it is appropriate for military surplus stores, uniform issue offices, and collectors of official insignia.

Care and notes

Care for the soggolo by storing it flat, avoiding prolonged exposure to moisture and heavy abrasion; handle the galloncini carefully to preserve stitching and color contrast.

- Store flat or on a padded surface to avoid creasing.
- Spot clean with a damp cloth; avoid bleach or aggressive solvents.
- Sale restricted: identity verification required before purchase.
- Collectors must provide a prefettizia licence in accordance with art. 28 TULPS.
