Product overview

The Soggolo Sergente Maggiore Capo Aeronautica Militare is a rank insignia designed for personnel of the Aeronautica Militare and qualified collectors. It is a formal badge worn to indicate the rank of Sergente Maggiore Capo and to reflect the service's tradition and quality.

Definition: a woven shoulder/hat ribbon insignia combining blue silk, black salpa backing and gold detailing, sized for correct placement on service dress. This item is relevant for tactical uniforms, military surplus collections and duty insignia needs.

Main features

Carefully made with precise dimensions and premium materials for durability and correct appearance.

- Materials: blue silk ribbon on black salpa backing with gold central stripe (5 mm).
- Dimensions: total length 32 cm; height 15 mm.
- Rank braid: blue rank braids with three central gold stripes, edged in blue (three rails per side).
- Placement: fitted to sit at temple level when worn in the correct position.
- Use cases: intended for service dress, ceremonial use, and verified military collections.

How to use / When it’s useful

Use the soggolo as the authorised rank insignia on approved Aeronautica Militare uniforms or as an authenticated collectible display piece. It should be positioned and attached according to service regulations so the temple-height placement is respected.

Quick answer: it is for serving Aeronautica Militare personnel and licensed collectors only. In most cases, purchase requires identity or license verification before order confirmation.

Care and notes

Keep the soggolo clean and stored flat to preserve shape and detail; avoid sharp creasing and exposure to strong sunlight for long periods.

- Store flat or on a padded support to avoid bending the braid.
- Light surface cleaning only; avoid aggressive solvents.
- Sale restricted: buyers must provide a PDF copy of military ID to prove Aeronautica Militare service.
- Collectors must provide a prefectoral license in accordance with article 28 of the TULPS.
