How to use / When it’s useful

Quick answer: keep the medal as a personal memento, mount it in a display case, or add it to a medals board for formal presentation. The medal serves as a visible record of participation in a humanitarian mission.

In most cases, recipients and collectors use this medal for display, archival storage, or inclusion in a military surplus or tactical memorabilia collection. It also makes a respectful gift to family members of those who served.

Care and notes

Basic care keeps the bronze looking its best and preserves inscriptions and ribbon condition.

- Store in a dry place away from direct sunlight to protect the ribbon and metal.
- Clean gently with a soft cloth; avoid harsh chemicals or abrasive cleaners on bronze.
- Handle the ribbon carefully to prevent fraying at the edges.
- Note: the item is available only in the 37 mm format and stock is limited.

FAQ

Q: What material is the medal made of?

A: The medal is made of bronze. The bronze finish is intended for longevity and to retain the commemorative details.

Q: What size is the medal?

A: The medal is available only in the 37 mm format. No other sizes are offered.

Q: What does the ribbon represent?

A: The white ribbon with two 4 mm red stripes (pali) at the ends identifies the Arcobaleno mission and matches the original mission ribbon design.

Q: Are the inscriptions original?

A: Yes. The obverse reads "Croce Rossa Italiana Albania 1999" and the reverse shows "CROCE ROSSA ITALIANA ALBANIA APRILE-AGOSTO 1999" as part of the commemorative design.

Q: Is the medal suitable for collectors?

A: Yes. Due to its historical context and limited availability, it is commonly sought by collectors of military surplus, tactical, and duty memorabilia.

Q: Is stock limited?

A: Yes. Availability is limited, so consider purchasing promptly if you want to add this medal to a collection or to commemorate service.

Tip: Choose the 37 mm option when ordering and consider browsing related medals and memorabilia to complete a display or collection; select items that match in period and type for a consistent presentation.
