How to use / When it’s useful

These alamari fasten to the collar to complete the official uniform for formal duty, inspections, and ceremonial events. They are also suitable for display in a military or police collection when accompanied by the required documentation.

Quick answer: Wear them on the collar as uniform insignia or keep them as a verified collector item with the proper license. In most cases, orders must include the service ID (tesserino) or the registration must list the station command as the delivery address to confirm eligibility.

Care and notes

Handle the embroidered alamari with care to preserve the gold bullion thread and grey cloth backing; they are decorative uniform elements rather than everyday wear items.

- Store flat or in a protective case to avoid crushing the embroidery.
- Do not wash in a washing machine; spot clean gently if necessary.
- Sale requires proof of belonging to the Corpo Forestale or a prefectoral license under art. 28 TULPS for collectors.
- Allow 20 working days for production and delivery after ordering.
