Product overview

Embroidered collar insignia (alamari) for Carabinieri superior officers (Maggiore, Tenente Colonnello, Colonnello). These jacket collar patches feature a five-point serrated silver star edged in black and are designed for formal and ceremonial use on the officer's uniform. Definition: a sewn collar insignia indicating rank and institutional identity.

Made to match official uniform proportions, the alamari are intended for Carabinieri officers, authorized collectors with proper permits, and verified museum or cultural institutions. Sale and shipment are subject to identity and authorization checks.

Main features

High-quality embroidered collar insignia with traditional heraldic motifs and durable materials chosen for ceremonial appearance and long service life.

- Hand-applied silver canutiglia (metallic thread) for raised, detailed embroidery.
- Decorative sequins to increase reflectivity and visual depth without excess shine.
- Black uniform cloth base cut and finished to official size standards.
- Central serrated silver star with black border for immediate rank recognition.
- Dimensions: 21.5 cm height × 4.5 cm width (excluding outer seam margin).
- Mounting options: sewn permanently or attached with removable supports (press studs or Velcro) per unit rules.
- Restricted sale: supplied only after verification to eligible buyers (service personnel, licensed collectors, museums).

How to use / When it’s useful

Apply the alamaro to the collar of the officer's ordinary or dress jacket following your unit's uniform rules. Quick answer: for formal, representative and ceremonial contexts only — not intended for operational field use.

Typical use cases include military ceremonies, national parades, state funerals, official receptions and public appearances. In most cases, the alamaro is mounted on the collar using permanent stitching or removable fasteners according to departmental directives.

Care and notes

These alamari are crafted for long-term wear on ceremonial uniforms; follow recommended care to preserve metallic threads and embroidery detail.

- Prefer professional dry cleaning to protect metallic threads and sequins.
- Store in sealed anti-corrosion bags if exposed to high humidity or salty environments.
- Sale and shipment require verification of eligibility; provide requested documentation during registration.
- Returns accepted only for manufacturing defects or shipping errors; do not return if altered, used, or mounted.

FAQ

Q: Can I buy this if I am not a Carabinieri officer?

A: Yes, only if you are an authorized collector with a valid prefectoral license (ex art. 28 T.U.L.P.S.) or an approved museum/institution. Civilian purchases are subject to document verification.

Q: What documents are required to complete the purchase?

A: Military buyers must provide a readable military ID or service certificate, or register using their Command address. Collectors must submit a valid prefectoral license and a reason for acquisition.

Q: How do I submit my documents for verification?

A: Upload the required documents during account registration or send them via the site contact form as instructed by the shop. The verification team will review your files.

Q: How long does account verification take?

A: Verification typically completes within 24–48 working hours. You will receive an email confirmation once your account is enabled for reserved purchases.

Q: Are the alamari compatible with all officer jackets?

A: Yes. They are cut and sized to fit the standard collars of Carabinieri officer ordinary and dress jackets and match the prescribed proportions for superior officers.

Q: What is the return policy for reserved items?

A: Returns are accepted only for defects or shipping errors and only if the item has not been altered, mounted, or used. The sale remains subject to eligibility verification.

Tip: Choose the correct variant and confirm mounting preferences (sewn or removable) when ordering. Check related ceremonial uniform accessories to complete the set and ensure full compliance with your unit's dress regulations.
