How to use / When it’s useful

Attach the shoulder boards to the uniform using the rear clips; they are suitable for dress uniforms, formal duty, ceremonial use and official replacements. They pair well with other duty or police dress items and are relevant for military surplus collectors seeking authentic pieces.

Quick answer: use the rear clips to fix the alamari on the shoulder of the uniform and check alignment with the corresponding insignia. In most cases, orders are placed by unit supply officers or individual personnel who can provide proof of service or a delivery address at their Command Station or Legion.
