Product overview

The Braccialetto Paracord TAN Coyote Multitool is a tactical paracord bracelet designed for outdoor enthusiasts, campers, hunters, sailors, and anyone who needs compact survival gear. It combines wearable cordage with a buckle that houses basic survival tools for everyday carry, duty, and police use.

Definition: a paracord survival bracelet with an integrated multi-function buckle (compass, firestarter and whistle) and a high-strength nylon cord with seven internal strands.

Main features

Practical, wearable survival gear built from parachute-grade paracord and a multitool buckle for navigation and signaling.

- Paracord material: Nylon cord with a braided sheath and 7 white high-strength inner strands for durability.
- Multitool buckle: Built-in compass, firestarter (acciarino), and whistle for basic navigation, fire-making and emergency signaling.
- Cobra weave: Bracelet style model "Cobra" with a width of 2 cm and a thickness of 5 mm for a comfortable fit.
- Emergency cord: Bracelet can be unraveled to provide meters of usable cord for repairs, shelter or other field uses.
- Ready for outdoor use: Nylon paracord is water-resistant, suitable for camping, hiking, hunting and boating.

How to use / When it’s useful

Wear the bracelet daily as an EDC (everyday carry) item and unlock the buckle tools when needed; the compass helps with rough orientation, the firestarter aids in ignition, and the whistle signals for help. The cord can be released and used for temporary repairs or improvised shelters.

Quick answer: use it as a wearable survival kit for short trips, emergencies, or as part of tactical and military surplus gear. In most cases, the bracelet provides enough cord and basic tools for short-term field needs, not as a substitute for full survival equipment.

Care and notes

Simple care keeps the bracelet functional and extends its life; avoid prolonged exposure to harsh chemicals and dry it if soaked.

- Measure wrist circumference with a tape measure in centimeters for a custom fit.
- Rinse with fresh water and air-dry if used in saltwater or muddy conditions.
- Do not rely on the bracelet as your sole survival supply for extended or high-risk expeditions.
- Available only in TAN Coyote color; buckle tools are basic and intended for emergency use.

FAQ

Q: How do I measure my wrist to order the right size?

A: Use a flexible tape measure to record the circumference of your wrist in centimeters. Tell us that measurement and we will adjust the bracelet length for a proper fit.

Q: Is the bracelet waterproof?

A: The nylon paracord is water-resistant and suitable for wet conditions. Rinse with fresh water after saltwater exposure and allow it to air-dry.

Q: Can I use the bracelet in an emergency?

A: Yes. The bracelet can be unraveled for cord and the buckle includes a compass, firestarter and whistle for basic emergency tasks and signaling.

Q: Can I choose a different color?

A: Currently the bracelet is offered only in TAN Coyote. This color is intended to be versatile for outdoor and tactical environments.

Q: How long does shipping take?

A: Shipping times vary by location, but items are generally dispatched within 3–5 business days from order.

Q: Is the paracord the same as parachute cord?

A: Yes. The paracord is the same type of nylon cord used for parachutes, with a braided sheath and seven high-strength inner strands.

Tip: Provide your wrist measurement in centimeters when ordering to get the best fit. Check related tactical and outdoor items to build a complete kit tailored to your activities.
