Product overview

The Basco Generale di Brigata Congedato is a black Canadian-style beret designed for collectors, military history enthusiasts, and buyers of military surplus, tactical or duty apparel. It suits display, ceremonial use, or civilian wear where a historic or formal look is desired.

Definition: a Canadian-model black beret with a gross-grain edge, hand-embroidered silver wire (canutiglia) insignia on red cloth for the General rank, plus a diamond-shaped rank badge on a silver background with a five-point gold star.

Main features

Carefully made with traditional details that highlight authenticity and finish.

- Canadian-style black beret with a gross-grain edge for a neat, durable rim.
- Hand-embroidered insignia in silver canutiglia on red General's cloth for visible detail.
- Diamond-shaped rank badge on a silver background with a five-point gold star.
- Suitable for collectors, historical displays, ceremonial wear, and military surplus or tactical-focused wardrobes.
- Available in multiple sizes to ensure a proper fit—see the size guide before ordering.
- Limited availability—stock is produced in small quantities.

How to use / When it's useful

Quick answer: Wear it for display, formal or ceremonial occasions, reenactments, or as part of a historical collection. It is primarily a commemorative and dress item rather than field equipment.

In most cases, select your size using the provided guide to ensure a comfortable fit. The beret complements uniform-style outfits and military surplus or tactical collections, and it works well for police or duty-themed displays when used as a collector's piece.

Care and notes

Follow simple care steps to protect the fabric and hand-stitched insignia.

- Dry clean only to preserve the materials and embroidery.
- Avoid machine washing or bleaching, which can damage the canutiglia and cloth.
- Store in a cool, dry place away from direct sunlight to prevent fading.
- Handle the embroidered badge gently to avoid loosening threads.

FAQ

Q: What sizes are available for the Basco Generale di Brigata Congedato?

A: The beret is offered in multiple sizes to fit different head measurements. Please check our size guide for circumference measurements and fit tips.

Q: Is the insignia really hand-embroidered?

A: Yes. The emblem is hand-embroidered in silver canutiglia on red cloth, providing detailed stitching and a traditional appearance.

Q: How should I clean the beret?

A: We recommend dry cleaning only. Professional dry cleaning preserves the fabric, gross-grain edge, and delicate embroidery better than home washing.

Q: Can the beret be personalized or altered?

A: This product is sold in its standard configuration with the described insignia and rank badge. Customizations are not available at this time.

Q: How long does shipping take?

A: Typical processing and shipping take about 5–7 business days, depending on your location. Times may vary during peak periods or for international orders.

Q: Is this an official uniform item for active service?

A: The beret is a commemorative and dress-style piece described for collectors and ceremonial use. It should not be considered a replacement for issued service headgear in active duty contexts.

Tip: Choose the correct size using the size guide and consider viewing related military surplus and tactical headgear items to complete a display or uniform-style outfit. Browse similar berets and collector pieces to find matching items without committing to a single look.
