How to use / When it’s useful

These tubolari are worn on service shirts and sweaters to display the rank of Primo Luogotenente during duty, inspections, and formal occasions. They work for standard uniform use and for those managing uniformed teams in maritime duty.

Quick answer: Wear them on the sleeve of the designated service shirt or sweater as part of the official uniform. In most cases, purchase and use are limited to verified Marina Militare personnel after identity verification.

Care and notes

Basic care and ordering notes to keep the tubolari in good condition and ensure correct processing.

- Spot clean or use professional textile cleaning for embroidered insignia; avoid abrasive handling to protect the bullion thread.
- Store flat or gently rolled to prevent creasing of the embroidered area.
- Sale requires sending a copy of the service ID card or entering the Capitaneria di Porto service location for verification.
- Delivery within 20 days from order; availability is limited—orders may take time to process due to verification.

FAQ

Q: Who can buy these tubolari?

A: Only personnel of the Marina Militare may purchase. Each order is verified before the purchase filter is removed.

Q: How do you verify eligibility?

A: Verification is completed by sending a copy of your service ID card or by providing your Capitaneria di Porto service location during registration for confirmation.

Q: What is the delivery time?

A: Delivery is within 20 days from the order date. Processing may take additional time due to identity verification and limited availability.

Q: Can I change the category shown on the tubolari (for example Nocchiere di Porto)?

A: Yes. Indicate the desired category in the "Customer Communication" box when placing your order.

Q: What materials are used?

A: The tubolari are made on a blue cloth band with a red lower field; the stars are embroidered in silver bullion (canutiglia argentata). Materials are selected for durability and a formal finish.

Q: Can non-military collectors buy these items?

A: The product is reserved for Marina Militare personnel. Any purchase requests are subject to the same verification rules and will be assessed case by case as required by regulations.

Tip: Choose the correct category variant and verify your service details before ordering to speed processing. Check related uniform insignia and accessories to complete your set while supplies last.
