Definition: a Cordellina is a braided gold shoulder cord that denotes rank and duty on a formal uniform. These cords combine traditional design with a secure attachment suitable for duty and ceremonial use in military, police and tactical contexts. Limited availability applies.

Main features

Built to present a formal, orderly appearance on the right shoulder, these gold cords use classic construction and secure fixing details.

- Canutiglia braid with twisted simple cord ends finished with metal tips.
- Two internal simple cords, each approximately 72 cm in length.
- Ends joined with a specially designed thread ring for attachment to the jacket buttonhole.
- Designed to hang from the right shoulder, with the longer strand running under the right arm.
- Fixed under the right epaulette and secured to the top button for stable placement.

How to use / When it’s useful

Quick answer: attach the thread ring to the jacket's buttonhole and position the cord under the right epaulette so the longer strand falls under the right arm. In most cases, the shorter strand is held by an internal cord within the braid to keep a neat profile.

Use these Cordelline for formal parades, duty uniforms and official ceremonies where rank or appointment must be visible. They are suitable for military, police and similar formal duty contexts and are intended for the specified officer roles.

Care and notes

Keep the cords clean and stored flat or hung to preserve shape and finish. Handle the metal tips carefully to avoid scratching the braid.

- Do not expose to prolonged moisture; air-dry if damp.
- Store flat or hung to avoid kinks in the cords.
- Reserved for the listed officer roles; check regulations before use.
- Availability is limited; stock may be restricted for high-demand ranks.
