Product overview

The Magnum Zekrom Summer Boots are tactical summer boots designed for military, police, security and outdoor duty in warm climates. They combine leather and water-repellent Cordura for protection, breathability and long service life.

Definition: These are mid-height duty boots built to offer comfort, protection and traction for summer operations and civilian tactical use.

Main features

Key performance and protection features developed for demanding environments.

- Leather and water-repellent Cordura (2.2–2.4) upper for durability, weather resistance and breathability in hot conditions.
- Michelin sole with self-cleaning channels for improved traction and stability on wet, muddy or uneven surfaces.
- Ankle protection and lace closure to secure a stable, adjustable fit and reduce internal foot movement.
- Removable antibacterial insole that cushions steps and helps control odors during long wear.
- Reinforced toe and heel for extra abrasion resistance and longer service life.
- Non-metallic under-plate tested to 1100 N for puncture resistance while remaining lightweight and flexible.
- Advanced ventilation system to help dissipate sweat and reduce the risk of blisters in warm weather.

How to use / When it’s useful

Quick answer: Use these boots for summer patrols, urban operations, security shifts and any duty that needs breathable, protective footwear. They are made to perform in hot weather while offering puncture and ankle protection.

In most cases, the Magnum Zekrom boots work well for military surplus users, police officers on patrol, private security staff and outdoor workers who need a balance of airflow, traction and durability. Pair them with appropriate socks and break them in gradually for best comfort.

Care and notes

Basic care keeps the boots functional and extends their life—focus on gentle cleaning and proper drying.

- Clean dirt and mud with a damp cloth; avoid machine washing.
- Use a water-repellent leather care product on the leather parts as needed.
- Air dry after wet or muddy use; do not use direct heat or tumble dry.
- Remove the antibacterial insole to dry and clean separately.
- Note: the non-metallic plate provides puncture resistance and is lightweight; it also does not trigger metal detectors.

FAQ

Q: What are the main protective features of the Magnum Zekrom boots?

A: They combine a leather/Cordura upper, ankle protection, reinforced toe and heel, a Michelin traction sole and a non-metallic under-plate tested to 1100 N for puncture resistance.

Q: Are these boots suitable for summer use?

A: Yes. The upper materials and the advanced ventilation system are designed to keep feet cooler and reduce moisture build-up during hot-weather operations.

Q: Can I use these boots in urban and rough terrain?

A: Yes. The Michelin sole provides grip on varied surfaces and the reinforced construction stands up to abrasive ground and debris.

Q: Do the boots trigger metal detectors?

A: No. The protective plate is non-metallic, so it does not activate metal detectors while still offering puncture resistance.

Q: How do I care for the antibacterial insole?

A: Remove the insole to air dry after use and clean with a mild disinfectant or a damp cloth as needed to control odors.

Q: Do these boots meet any military specifications?

A: The product description notes production according to the military specification ST 1445; this reflects the intended design and quality standards for duty footwear.

Tip: Choose the correct size and variant for the intended duty—try them with your typical socks and walk indoors before field use. Browse related tactical and military surplus boots to compare soles, heights and weight for the best match to your operational needs.
