Product description:

Product overview

This embroidered patch reproduces the insignia of the 46^ Brigata Aerea "Silvio Angelucci" of the Aeronautica Militare. It is designed for military personnel, veterans, collectors, aviation enthusiasts and users of tactical, duty or police gear. Definition: a 6.5 cm x 8 cm embroidered unit patch with rear hook-and-loop (velcro) backing for quick attachment to uniforms and equipment.

The patch reflects the brigade’s long history—founded 15 February 1940, converted to aerosiluramento in 1942 and later focused on tactical transport and support missions. It serves as a collectible emblem of the unit’s identity and service.

Main features

Clear, durable construction and a design faithful to the 46^ Brigata Aerea identity make this patch suitable for display on uniforms, jackets and tactical gear.

- Size: 6.5 cm width x 8 cm height
- Material: High-quality embroidered fabric on a sturdy base
- Fastening: Rear hook-and-loop (velcro) for fast on/off
- Design: Central wolf motif, Lyra/Vega constellation and diagonal cartouche reading "46^ Brigata Aerea"
- Durability: Built to withstand regular use on uniforms and equipment

How to use / When it’s useful

The patch attaches to any garment or gear with a matching loop panel: uniform sleeves, chest panels, tactical vests, backpacks, jackets and caps. It is equally useful for display in collections or on civilian clothing for personalisation.

Quick answer: Attach to a loop surface and press firmly for instant fit.
In most cases: place on a visible panel (sleeve, chest or bag) for identification, heritage display or tactical marking.

Care and notes

Basic care keeps the patch looking sharp and extends its usable life. Remove before heavy cleaning when possible and avoid direct heat on the velcro.

- Clean gently with a damp cloth and mild soap for surface dirt
- Remove from fabric before ironing or dry cleaning where possible
- Store flat to prevent edge deformation
- Attach only to surfaces with a compatible loop panel for secure fit
