Definition: a ceremonial and duty cap that identifies the rank and role of a Polizia Locale commander while respecting regional uniform details.

Main features

Carefully crafted with traditional details and durable components to meet the needs of duty use and ceremonial wear.

- Internal frame (tondino and centina): ensures firm shape and long-lasting structure.
- Half-Bulgarian visor: made from durable material for extended service life.
- Blue damask band: an elegant band that denotes the commander grade.
- Silver braided chin cord: canutiglia argentata with three silver galloons edged in red, sitting above the visor as a rank symbol.
- Embroidered badge: shield on a scarlet background with the rearing horse (cavallino rampante), representing the Region of Toscana.
- Partially stitched badge: edges left free to simplify removal of the inner lycra cap for cleaning.

How to use / When it’s useful

The cap is intended for formal and operational contexts: representational duties, official ceremonies and normal territory patrols. It provides a professional appearance and clear rank identification for commanders on duty.

Quick answer: This berretto is for commanders of the Polizia Locale Toscana and for verified collectors who hold the required license. In most cases, it is worn during official events, ceremonies and representative services, but it can also be used during routine duty where a formal uniform is required.

Care and notes

Follow simple care steps to keep the cap in good condition; the construction supports practical maintenance without removing the front badge.

- Remove the inner lycra calotte for washing when needed; the badge is partially stitched to allow this without detaching it.
- Allow at least 30 days for production due to hand-embroidered badge work and artisanal finishing.
- Sale restricted: available only to active service personnel (service ID required) and to collectors with the prefectoral license as required by law.
- Account activation: after document verification our staff will enable your account and notify you by email.
