Product overview

The Mula Mushk Alam ribbon is a military merit ribbon awarded to personnel serving in Afghanistan who took part in training activities for the Afghan Armed Forces. It is intended for military personnel, veterans, collectors of military surplus, and anyone preserving service recognition.

Definition: the Mula Mushk Alam ribbon is an official service decoration ribbon presented to staff involved in Afghan forces training. This tactical/duty ribbon is available in regulation size and a slightly domed “Elite” variant.

Main features

Simple, regulated design with options for finish and attachment to suit uniforms or display mounts.

- Regulation size: available in the standard 37 mm format.
- Two finishes: flat regulation finish or slightly domed Elite variant.
- Rear attachment options: choose clamps or screws in the product dropdown.
- Mounting: can be fitted on multi-place ribbon bars (two or more positions).
- Target users: suitable for duty wear, military surplus collections, or display.

How to use / When it’s useful

Use the ribbon on service uniforms or on a metal ribbon bar for display. Select the rear attachment type that matches your uniform setup or display hardware for a secure fit.

Quick answer: choose the 37 mm regulation size and pick clamps or screws depending on how you attach ribbons. In most cases, the Elite (slightly domed) finish offers a neater look on display bars or dress uniforms.

Care and notes

Basic care keeps the ribbon looking its best; choose the correct attachment and mounting to avoid damage to the ribbon or uniform.

- Store in a dry place and avoid crushing the ribbon to preserve shape and color.
- Select clamps for quick removal or screws for a more permanent attachment.
- Compatible with metal multi-place ribbon bars (two or more positions) for grouped display.
- Limited availability: stock is restricted, so consider ordering promptly if needed.
