Product overview

The Carnegie Foundation Bronze ribbon is a recognition ribbon for acts of heroism by men and women in peace operations carried out on Italian territory. It is intended for collectors, military surplus buyers, and those assembling duty or police ribbon displays.

Definition: This is a 37 mm ribbon loaded at the center with a five?point bronze star and represents the second?highest honor awarded by the Carnegie Foundation for heroism.

Main features

Clean, durable manufacture with selection options for finish and rear attachment—suitable for display on single or multi?place ribbon bars.

- Official look: 37 mm ribbon centered with a five?point bronze star.
- Two finish options: standard flat or slightly domed Elite variant.
- Rear attachment choices: selectable with screws or with clamps.
- High?quality materials: built for long?term display and handling.
- Ribbon bar compatibility: fits on two?place or multi?place ribbon mounts.
- Limited availability: produced in small quantities and in steady demand.

How to use / When it’s useful

Use the ribbon as part of a formal award display, on a ribbon bar, or in a collector’s presentation case. Select the rear attachment type (screws or clamps) based on your mounting preference or existing ribbon mount.

Quick answer: Choose the 37 mm size and the finish (flat or Elite) that matches your other medals. In most cases, the ribbon mounts easily on standard two?place or multi?place ribbon bars and works well for tactical, military surplus, duty, or police displays.

Care and notes

Keep the ribbon clean and handle it respectfully as it represents an honorific award. Store in a dry place away from direct sunlight to preserve color and finish.

- Handle by the ribbon edges to avoid fingerprints on the star.
- Wipe gently with a soft, dry cloth; avoid solvents.
- Select screw or clamp attachment when ordering to match your ribbon bar.
- Note limited availability—orders may be subject to stock variance.
