protection, and reliable grip. They pair a soft, flexible Amara material with spandura (nylon and lycra) to balance comfort and durability.

Definition: Half-finger tactical gloves made from spandura and Amara to improve weapon control and hand protection during training, duty, or outdoor activities.

Main features

These tactical gloves combine comfort, control, and protection for duty, police work, shooting sports, and general outdoor use.

- Half-finger design: Improved fingertip sensitivity for precise handling of pistols and rifles.
- Quality materials: Spandura (nylon and lycra) with Amara, a very soft, flexible leather-like material.
- Padded palm inserts: Enhanced grip on weapons and cushioning during falls to reduce impact and abrasion.
- Adjustable double Velcro wrist closure: Custom fit that keeps the gloves secure during activity.
- Ergonomic cut: Shaped for natural hand movement and extended wear comfort.

How to use / When it’s useful

Quick answer: Use these gloves when you need a balance of fingertip feel and hand protection—ideal for shooting ranges, tactical training, patrol duty, and outdoor sports. The half-finger style lets you operate controls and triggers without removing the gloves.

In most cases: wear them during extended training sessions or field operations where grip and palm cushioning help control recoil and protect the hands. They are also suited to general military surplus, duty, and police tasks that require dexterity and hand protection.

Care and notes

To keep the materials and fit in good condition, follow gentle care instructions and common-sense handling tips.

- Hand wash with warm water and mild soap; avoid machine washing to protect Amara and padding.
- Air dry away from direct heat or sunlight to prevent material damage.
- Do not bleach or use harsh solvents; avoid excessive abrasion to Velcro closures.
- Check fit before heavy use; a secure wrist closure reduces slippage during activity.
